NAVIGATION OF ROCK RIVER IS A POSSIBILITY

LYMAN E. COOLEY OF CHICAGO
MADE STRONG TALK ON THE SUBJECT.

TWILIGHT CLUB'S EVENING

What the Future May Bring to Janesville as a Result of the Agitation of the Project.

Possibilities that may be realized, travel by water from Janesville to the Gulf of Mexico, reduction of freight rates, increased population, better streets, better government and a richer and greater manufacturing city were some of the outlying views presented for Janesville's future at the meeting of the Twilight Club last evening.

Rock River navigation, its possibility ed a general discussion and several suggestions were made as to plans for the coming meetings. It was recommended that the leader selected for certain meetings be given more time for the preparations.

The question selected by the committee for the December meeting was "The Liquor Question and the Phases of County Option"; the leader is to be W. S. Jeffers. For the January meeting "Our Foreign Relations; America as a World Power," has been chosen for the subject of discussion. In February will be the Science night led by E. J. Hammons. In March "City Government by Commission," under the leadership of C. H. Lange, will be considered. Ladies' Night comes in April. The leader is to be appointed later. The suggestions of the committee were accepted.

T. H. Welch was asked as to the disposal of the prizes offered by the Twilight club for the improvement of the school yards of the city, but owing to the absence of Dr. Mills, chairman of the committee, he was unable to give any report.

George S. Parker, leader for the evening, made an opening talk on the program and referred to the trip to Dixon, Ill., and the facts which were brought out at that meeting.

Green Bay. During the trip through the canal he considered which was the better river for navigation and his conclusion was that the Rock was as good and even better for that purpose than the Fox river, which is navigable from Portage to Green Bay. The government has spent a good deal of money in making it navigable and if a like amount were spent on Rock River it also would bring results. At every two miles along the Fox river there are locks, and at every one of these locks there is situated a factory.

Boats going up and down the river convey the materials for manufacture to the factories and then carry the finished products away. A deep waterway for Rock River is not only feasible, but it is practical. It would mean an immense saving in the difference between the rates charged by the railroads and the rates over the waterway. The railroads of the country are at present unable to handle the vast amount of business which is being carried on and it would help in transferring this commerce if a system of waterways were put in throughout the country. J. J. Hill has made the statement that to adequately handle the freight traffic of the United States would require 120, association. Coming to the serious part of his talk he said that the valley of Rock river was one of the (Continued on Page 3.)

MRS. A. C. HOUGH

At a Five o'Clock Tea Given at Beautiful Home on South Main Street Yesterday Afternoon.

At her spacious and attractive home on South Main street yesterday afternoon, Mrs. A. C. Hough entertained a company of eighty ladies at a five o'clock tea. The repast was served under the direction of Mrs. Louise Howman at small tables on the broad veranda, which has recently been enclosed in glass and converted into a sun-room. A profusion of roses and carnations were employed in the decorative scheme and the Knott & Hatch orchestra, almost concealed by a bank of palms, rendered a program of attractive musical numbers throughout the evening. In the beautiful ball-room on the third floor,

Buttons are large for the coats, but not of such great dimensions when adorning the skirts.

The pure Directoire gown is only for the woman who can have many rich and costly costumes.

With the cutting away of coats vests will be much worn to fill in the wide-open front.

The strictly pompadour collar calls for a small hat to be worn far back on the head.

Corded silk is much used for outlining revers, and buttons often emphasize the angles.

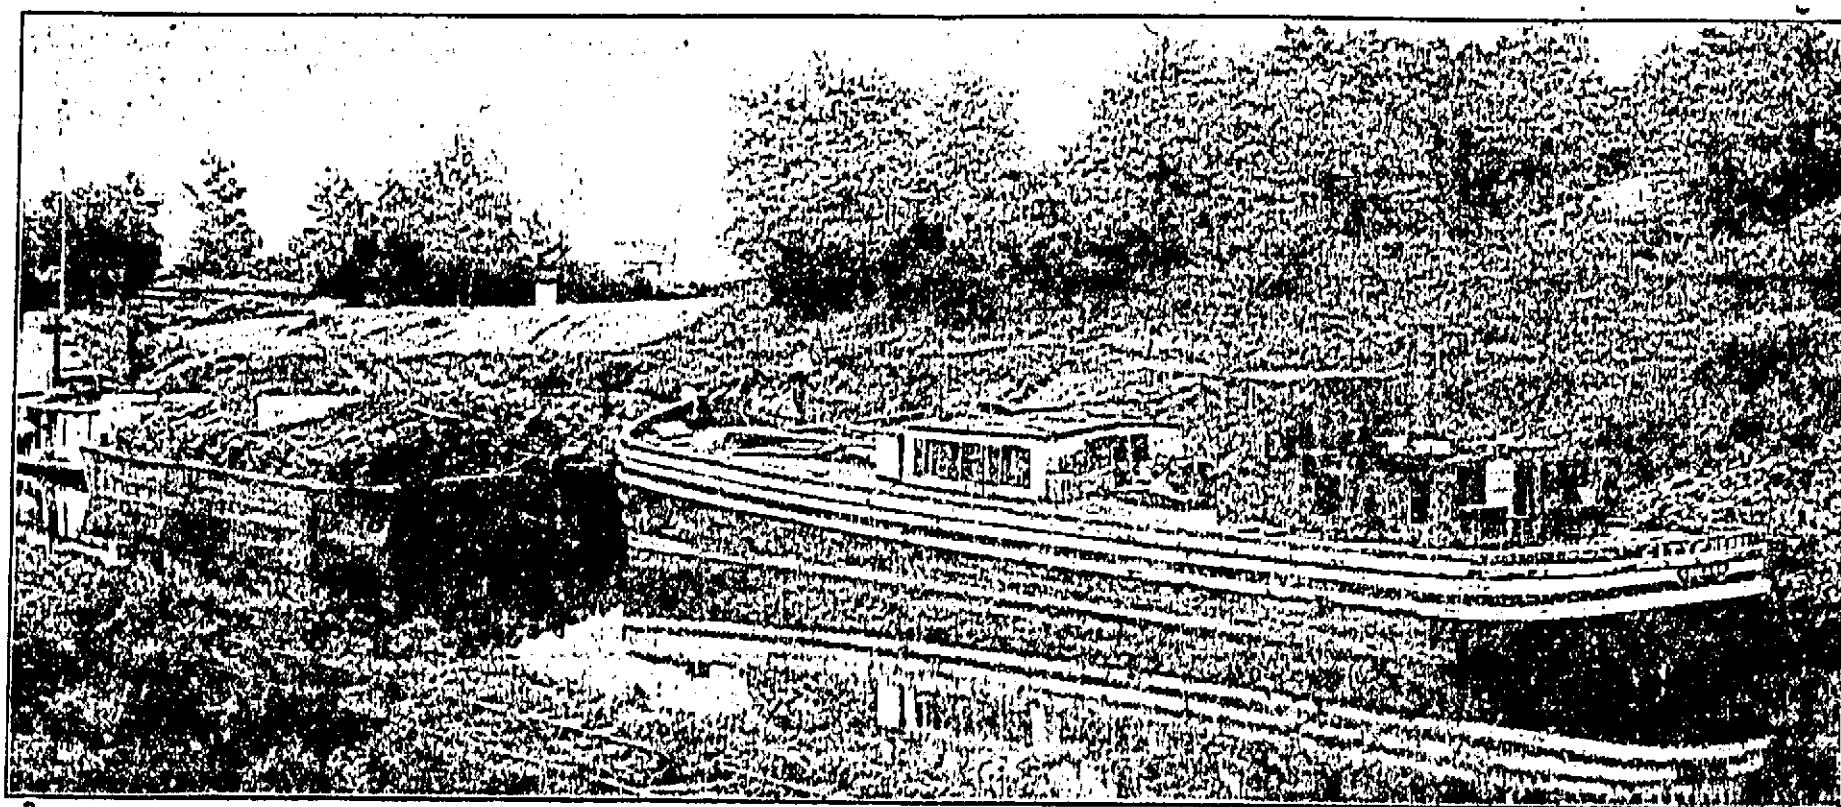

Fashionable shades of brown are to be very dark, seal and leaf brown being the favorites.

All tones of yellow are in vogue for the new season's headgear, and khaki, buff and suede lead.

While grown-ups must change their colors with varying fashions, children may wear white the year round.

Fashionable French women have revived perfumes and sachets and even their muffs and veils are scented.

Popular dress materials of the winter will include worsted fabrics, chevrons and homespuns.

Here is a view of what might be a daily scene in Janesville if the project to make Rock river navigable were carried through as discussed by the Twilight Club last evening. This picture was taken at Sterling, Illinois, and shows a canal boat load of cheap coal which has been received.

ties and its feasibility was the subject discussed and the views presented on the question by both the local speakers and Lyman E. Cooley of Chicago, the authority on inland deep waterways and the man who made possible the Chicago Drainage canal and is now head and front of the project to connect the great lakes with the Mississippi by a deep water canal.

It was a most interesting and instructive meeting. It touched upon a subject that is of vital interest to Janesville and the other cities located on the Rock river, whose course may some day be the scene of freight and passenger traffic, realizing the dream of a half century ago. Mr. Cooley's address was most scholarly and touched upon the project as not an improbability but a fact that needed only capital and concerted action of the government and cities along the route to make a fact.

The plan to make Rock river navigable was taken up at the recent meeting of the Rock River Improvement Association meeting in Dixon, Illinois. Several of the speakers last evening were at this meeting and were imbued with the spirit of the occasion. It was decided at this Dixon gathering to petition congress to have an appropriation made for a preliminary survey of the river with an idea of asking for an appropriation to carry the idea through later.

W. A. Meece of Moline, Illinois, an attorney much interested in the project, visited Janesville during the past week, having made a trip on foot from the Horton marsh district to Janesville, taking photographs, making tests of soil and current and otherwise preparing himself to present a memorial to congress on the situation.

George S. Parker was leader of the meeting and his well chosen words of introduction of the various speakers gave the members of the club and their invited guests an idea of what was to follow. Members of the county board, now in session, were invited to be present and many availed themselves of the opportunity. Others from Beloit and the city were there, a hundred and sixty sitting down to the supper at 6:30.

After the supper the business portion of the meeting was attended to, Mr. Benson gave the report of the committee on programs, which opened

He said that the ideas of sixty years ago concerning this question should not be considered now. He told of his ideal of a city, in which there was a population of 30,000 people all happy and industrious and such a population as Janesville might have if the deep-river waterway became a reality. He spoke of the benefit such a waterway would be to the interests of the town, how it would mean more population, more factories, more streets, and better paved streets, and a more economical municipal administration. It may be impractical, he said, but that is to be proven. Let us all put our shoulder to the wheel and help to bring about this condition in our city.

F. A. Capello was the first speaker of the evening and related much of the early history and recent improvement in Rock River navigation. He spoke of the days when the head of navigation was situated up the river and of some of the towns which existed in 1835, which have been forgotten; of the plans for the laying out of Wisconsin City, as the town was to be called, and the various deals in real estate connected with the building of this town. Also of Newburg and other places now remaining only in the memories of the old inhabitants. He told of the coming of the first steambot up the river from the Mississippi in 1836 and how three years later navigation was possible to Jefferson.

In 1840 an enterprising citizen, who perhaps had been fooled by some of the land boomers, went around amongst the businessmen and managed to get enough money to buy a steambot for navigation on the river, and after running the line for a short time disappeared down the river. In 1841 a Mississippi river came up the river and a great many from Janesville went on board, taking the trip to Port Atkinson and remaining for the night. The next day they went as far as Jefferson, a length of the bridge at Port Atkinson being removed to allow them to pass. Coming back the boat ran onto a rock near the Jones farm and remained there until three or four years later. That almost ended navigation on Rock River, although in later years and especially at the present time a small amount of navigation is done, consisting mostly of old papers, dry-goods boxes, tin cans and so forth.

In 1860 Congress authorized a survey of Rock River, from Rock Island to Fond du Lac, and made an appropriation for the purpose. The report made by those in charge showed that a line of canal was available from Green Bay to the Mississippi. In this report it was planned to run the waterway through Lake Horton, but it was found that an adequate supply of water could not be had in order to make the canal deep enough. Mr. Capello told of some of the things which were learned at the meeting in Dixon; of how the river had been already made navigable farther down and of the cheapening of freight rates.

Following Mr. Capello's talk, T. S. Nolan introduced Rev. Carden of Beloit, who was one of the delegates from Beloit to the meeting and who was much interested in river navigation. Rev. Carden gave the reason for his interest in river navigation as being because he had done some navigating himself. While spending a vacation at a small lake near Milwaukee he and companions had purchased a rowboat and had rowed through the outlet river of the lake into Rock River and Lake Koshong and down the Rock to Beloit. The next year a launch was purchased and a trip down the Rock and into the Mississippi had been made. He said that he had found the Rock navigable all the way to the Mississippi except where it was blocked by dams. They then went up the Mississippi river to the Wisconsin and from the Wisconsin into the Fox River into 000 miles of additional truck and the cost to install this would be 5,000 millions of dollars. The present system has cost 15,000 million dollars. The cost of a waterway throughout the United States from New York to New Orleans and from Duluth to the west, as far as the Missouri west would be 500 million dollars. This question is, should we pay through our freight rates for 5,000 million dollars' worth of rails or for 500 million in waterways. The facts seem to be in favor of the waterways.

S. M. Smith was the next speaker, having the topic, "What a Deep Waterway Would Do for Janesville." In introducing him the leader said that in view of the fact that Smith was such an excellent and such a true prophet and as he saw so clearly what was to happen, Smith had been chosen for this topic because they wanted to know what Janesville would be like when they got the waterway through to Janesville. His foresight had been illustrated when two or three years ago, he spoke of a South Janesville and told of a building to be erected by J. M. Dintwicks, (though he (Parker) thought that the line had not even dreamed of such a thing at that time.

Mr. Smith stated that he wished as he might be as great a prophet as he was pictured to be, but the fact was neither a prophet nor the son of a prophet. His choice of a topic would rather have been, "What Would the Water Wagon Do for Janesville." Proceeding with his prophecy he gave a beautiful picture of Janesville as it would be ten years from now with the deep waterway coming to our fair city. He told of the broad asphalted streets, lined with the beautiful mansions of the people of the town, of factories, beautiful drives, the good work of the Janesville Pleasure Drive

Why Not Get Some Diapnein Now and Rid Yourself of Dyspepsia Forever.

Miserable indeed is the man or woman whose digestive system is unstrung—who goes to the table and can not eat or who little by little is eaten away to fill them and lays like a lump of lead in the stomach, refusing to digest.

If you, dear reader, suffer this way and will not put your wraps now and get from your Pharmacist a box of Diapnein, you will find it a most wonderful remedy. It will not only give you relief, but it will also give you a new lease on life. It will also give you a new lease on life. It will also give you a new lease on life.

When Diapnein works your stomach reads—gets itself in order. Diapnein purifies and sweetens a sour stomach and freshens the intestines without the use of laxatives, and what is more, it increases the gastric juices. This is what your stomach is begging for—more and better digestive juices. This is what makes you hungry and want to eat, and you can rest assured what you then eat will be taken care of properly and not left in the stomach to ferment and turn to gas and acid, and poison the breath with noxious odors.

HOSTESSES AT AN ELABORATE DINNER

The Misses Hazel Spencer and Josephine Treat Entertained for Miss Elizabeth Wilcox Last Evening.

Sixteen couples were guests of the Misses Josephine Treat and Hazel Spencer at an elaborate six-course dinner given in honor of Miss Elizabeth Wilcox at the Ten Shop last evening. The banquet room and festal board were appropriately decorated for the occasion and illuminated by candle-light. Places were assigned by means of dainty and much-heralded heart and key cards, bearing pen-and-ink reproductions of Gibson's cupids. Between the courses toasts to the guest of honor and the hostesses were offered in the form of impromptu musical ensembles and at the conclusion of the dinner the company adjourned to East Side Odd Fellows hall where Roy Carter played for a dance lasting until one o'clock this morning. In addition to those who have been mentioned, the following participated in the festivities: The Misses Vera Wilcox, Mae Treat, Winifred Ebbel, Marjorie Mount, Louise Merrill, Charlotte Mount, Florence Palmer, Elizabeth McKee, Amoret Whitton, Lillian Mount, Grace Valen-tine, Mabel Greenman, and Catherine Field; the Messrs. Hugh C. Leighton of Portland, Maine, George Heckler of Chicago, Roy Smith of Beloit, Frank Klumb, Henry Carpenter, E. V. Whitton, William McNeill, Stanley Dunwiddie, James Brewer, Ralph Lewis, Samuel Bohlin, John Lovejoy, Stanley Woodruff, John Shener, Walter Kerch, and Ralph Van Cleave.

A quietness still prevails in the local tobacco market although it is the expectation of all of the dealers that within the next thirty days there will be a material change for the better. Inquiries of samples and samples sent out by dealers give them encouragement although at present orders are not coming in swiftly. In the New York market the '06 binder leaf and the '06 Spanish Zimmer filler leaf are taking the lead. Most of the manufacturers are buying from hand to mouth. McGiffin and Hilsenrath yesterday made a shipment of two carloads for Eastern parties.

G. H. Hummel also sent out a shipment of 7 cases.

Showered modistes say that the fashion for very large hats will prevail so long as plain gowns remain.

All buttons are now made of the same material as the dress or to match the revers, collars or their facings.

The new skirt is so narrow at the hem that it measures only from three to three and a half yards in width.

No color now has so strong a hold upon fashion as black, and whatever is not black will at least be dull in hue.

Gray, bronze, blue, green and brown-brown continue, as well as many others, will be severely trimmed in black.

Sheer batiste waists are shown trimmed with lace and embroidery and with sleeves that reach to the knees.

To keep within the close lines demanded by fashion, overskirts are tied, knotted or bunched back of the knees.

Mullin is used about bands and sometimes as a trimming to relieve the heavy effect of some of the feather bandeaux.

Streamers appear on some of the new hats, but this seems but an experiment, and is not likely to become fashionable.

Altogether superb is a deep apricot headcloth with its festoon tuckings and heavy silk embroidery with touches of gun metal.

NAVIGATION OF THE ROCK A POSSIBILITY

most fertile agricultural sections of the country and that it was growing rapidly in population. If a deep river waterway could be had it would be a benefit to every town along the banks. To illustrate one of the benefits which would be received he showed by figures that it would be a benefit to the country. According to his estimate, which he made from the figures which manufacturers have been able to give him, about 25,000 tons of coal are consumed in this city for manufacturing purposes alone. Comparing the cost of transportation as it is true on the Ohio river, it costs 67 cents to transport one ton of freight one hundred miles by water; the cost by rail for the same is $7.50. Between twenty and twenty-two thousand dollars a year would be saved on that one item. If a system of waterways was had throughout the country the cost to the farmer for carrying his products to the market would be lessened, and the farmer could get more for his produce.

M. O. Mount objected to the finish made by Mr. Smith, saying that he had been expecting to wind up with a fantasy about the starry-eyed goddess, after his start about the waterway. He did not think it a feasible plan because the river was too shallow.

Ways and Means to Secure Government Aid in Making Rock River Navigable were discussed by T. S. Nolan. By talking with some of the men who were influential in Illinois and who were greatly interested in the work, Mr. Nolan said that he was told the deep river waterway to Dixon could be built for $175,000 and to Rockford for a proportionate amount. At the next session of Congress there will be brought up a bill asking for an appropriation of $10,000 for a survey and report on making Rock River navigable. Congressman Lowden, who is deeply interested in the project, has talked with "Uncle Joe" Cannon and members of the Rivers and Harbors committee and has been assured that the bill will get a hearing. Mr. Roche, another of the workers, said that each community should add the government by the purchase of dockage and waterfrontage. Mr. Nolan's suggestion as to the thing to be done would be to write to Representative Lowden and ask him to add him, Frank Lowden in securing the appropriation, and also Senator La Follette and Stephenson might be appealed to. He made the motion that V. P. Richardson, F. P. Burr and H. L. McNamara be appointed a committee to write Mr. Cooper and Senator La Follette and to interest them in the project. The motion was carried unanimously.

V. P. Richardson in speaking of the topic, "Are We Ready to Give a Helping Hand to The Deep Waterway Project," said that he was only safe in expressing the opinion of the people of Janesville in, if it is a good thing we want it, if it is not we don't want it. So little is known of its desirability and feasibility that the subject could only be considered by analogy. There are two great systems of transportation in this country, the railroads and the waterways. The railroads are only possible by the centralization of large amounts of capital and the sacrifice of small cities and interests for the benefit of the larger. The waterways are the poor man's means of transportation. There is no cost of maintenance for the waterways and they are free to all people.

Americans neglect one of the greatest resources that has been given to them and sacrifice economy for speed. The cost of transportation by water is more economical than by rail. Goods can be shipped for one-sixth the cost of shipping over the railroads. The improvements made on lakes and waterways in other parts of the country have paid for themselves in a short time, oftentimes in a year. Other desirable points were told of and the speaker finished by saying that he considered it our duty to our country to aid the government in this scheme, as the population of the country would be increased along the waterways, because the population flows along the lines of least resistance and those lines are along the waterways.

Lynan E. Cooley was then introduced to the meeting by Mr. Parker, telling of his work on the Drainage Canal at Chicago and the numerous engineering enterprises of note in which he had worked. Mr. Cooley spoke first of the success of the vote for all appropriation to be made for waterways in the state of Illinois, to aid in the work which the government will do.

He dwelt upon the fact that the general features of the topography of the country in the great valley of the Mississippi, which extends from the Rocky mountains almost to the Atlantic seaboard and from north of the Great Lakes in the north to the Gulf of Mexico in the south, were favorable to such means of transportation. He made the statement that water navigation is practical and that the resources of the country are adequate to establish a waterway in this great basin.

The cost of building such a system would be less than the cost of building the two Vanderbilt lines from New York to Chicago, or less than the cost to the government of the Panama canal. In the effects that it would have it would cut the cost of shipping goods from Chicago and other cities to European ports.

He told of the various conditions existing on the Mississippi river between New Orleans and Chicago and the means of dealing with these conditions to get a regular depth of the water at low tide. In some parts a canal and levee would be necessary, while in others it would be like sharpening the teeth of a tiger.

In Illinois, the development of the waterways will mean a great deal. The money spent will be more than repaid and great resources will be developed. The value for the water-power alone will be not less than eighty millions of dollars and the fisheries and farming lands will be improved. Land that is now of little value will be reclaimed.

Considering this great Mississippi valley from the point of a geographer, he told of the time when the entire section from Hudson's Bay to the Gulf was an inland sea deep enough to float an Atlantic liner. This area is greater than Europe of the present day and allowing for the fertile and impossible places, there are over two million square miles of area which are under a normal rainfall. This place is the greatest habitation for man that can be found. It is the home of a homogeneous people. In France, there is one mile of railroad to 1 or 6 miles of territory. Yet with their waterways they are able to handle an enormous amount of traffic. In Illinois there is one mile of railroad to every four miles of territory and they are unable to handle the business in prosperous times.

It is possible to make a system of waterways so that each section will be in a favored position. If such a thing can be produced the railroads and waterways will be able to do as is done in France and Germany and all traffic can be handled.

In the Rock River valley there are 11,000 square miles of territory. In France or Germany this would be considered a first class river and is feasible to develop it. In 1868 a survey was made from Lake Winnebago to the mouth. It was proposed to develop this by locks and dams. The fall from Rock Island is 200 feet, which is sufficient to provide the force necessary. No difficulty would be had in extending the system to the Mississippi lakes and ample water to feed the canal could be had to run the line to the Fox River and Milwaukee. There is in Rock river a flow of 1,000 feet per second with the fall which it has. If but one-tenth of the power of Rock river could be controlled, a thousand horsepower could be developed. It would mean a value to the region of millions of dollars. One hundred thousand horsepower could be developed in the Rock river valley.

The dividends of such a project should not be considered but the children and grandchildren of the present generation should be taken into consideration. What can be done and what is done should be in harmony. You say you can not afford to spend millions now, but you could spend twenty millions a year for fifteen years.

Consider what is the best thing to do and not what the cost is going to be. I can not say what depth is feasible for Rock river but it is a large stream and is capable of doing a great deal for you. The improvements in Illinois are paying for themselves. It can be used for pleasure as well as for profit. People will spend more for pleasure than for anything else. The Chicago Drainage Canal has not cost the people of Chicago what they have spent in the fourth of July.

In Michigan a small stream was developed, with its lakes and tributaries, and twenty millions of wealth were added to the wealth of the country in which it flowed. If you wish yourself on a par with the large cities, bring the sea to your door by a system of deep waterways. The waterways of the country are not yet developed. What would the railroads of the country be if they were in the same condition as the waterways of the country? The waterways of our country should be connected as the railroads are connected or as the waterways of France and Germany are connected.

AT THE PLAY HOUSES

Stubborn Cinderella
Janesville theatregoers are promised a rare treat tomorrow evening when the presentation of "A Stubborn Cinderella" comes to the local playhouse. Manager Myers has secured one of the best attractions of the play that will be in Chicago a year from day if present box office receipts keep up that is on the road.

It is a first class company, one designed to play in Milwaukee, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Omaha, Cleveland and New York and Boston. It has clever people in its cast, not as clever as those who comprise the stock companies of the Princess and La Salle theatres, Chicago, and is replete in clever sayings and clever songs. The show girl takes the place of the Brothers of former La Salle and Princess theatre productions and the change is pleasing. Mort Slinger secured Mr. Myers. It is one of the best musical comedies now on the road and press notices show that it is considered as everywhere it appears. The seat sale is exceptionally large.

The upper cut shows the canal feeder guard lock and the government dam at Sterling, Ill., in Rock river. This dam stores millions of tons of water to supply the new Illinois & Mississippi canal. Incidentally it makes Rock river navigable for fifteen miles for freight barges and large packets which will be able to reach Dixon and give that city the benefits of the canal after slight improvement of the river channel below that city.

The lower cut shows the 4,000-horse hydro-electric power plant being installed at the north end of the dam by the Sterling Hydraulic Co., which, when complete, will turn the wheels of factories that will employ 4,000 men. The power at this dam is worth a million dollars or more.

One of the most notable features of value in this improvement is the great pondage held back of the new dam, reaching within the city limits of Dixon, eighteen miles away. This pondage assures steady power both at the new power plant and at the old dam a mile below, making 7,000 or more horsepower available every day in the year. The recent drought, lasting nearly two months, failed to affect the power at the lower dam and at the same time the needs of the canal were fully cared for. It also practically puts Dixon in touch with the canal and the rich farms and villages for nearly twenty miles on both sides of the river will participate in the advantages of low freight rates. The dam cost approximately $100,000 and the damage to land overflowed $100,000.

WISCONSIN WEATHER FORECAST.

Fair tonight and Thursday, continued cool.

HIGH FINANCE.

The conviction of Morse, the New York banker, and his sentence of 15 years in a federal prison is an evidence of justice which satisfies the people that money and station are no longer considered.

The man who, like New York occasionally, is impressed with the notion that there is no city in the land where money is so abundant. The little roll in his pocket seems so insignificant that he feels like a pauper.

The theatre district at midnight, under the glare of light which gives it a moon day appearance, swarms with people who represent the spending class of New York.

"Edward P. Moxey, an 'expert' bank examiner of the U. S., whose work is said to have landed nearly forty dishonest bankers behind the bars, has summed up in one word the cause of the downfall of so many men who have been prominent in social and financial circles. That one word is 'Broadway.' He says, when asked what he meant:

"I mean the 'Broadway,' New York, I mean the gorgeous hotels and restaurants, the bars, the gambling houses, the myriad theaters, the palatial apartment houses, the turning of night into day. I mean the flood of money in New York upon which this life is borne along, the craving for vast incomes by which alone such a life can be lived."

To say that even a bare majority of the tens of thousands of men who nightly swell the crowd of amusement crazed spenders, who live in $5,000 apartments and whose touring cars congest the streets, are doing this with money which is honestly theirs is absurd. They are not earning this money; they are either juggling other people's cash or they are gambling with their own.

"When you can go into a restaurant at 2 o'clock in the morning and behold $10,000 worth of women's gowns at the tables and $3,000 worth of food in process of consumption, something is wrong. And when you observe $500,000 worth of automobiles waiting to take this one supper crowd to their homes—or elsewhere—you may be sure that there is queer bookkeeping somewhere."

This graphic description is so true to conditions that it tells the story of extravagance and waste, and causes the simple life to stand out in sharp contrast.

Broadway sets the pace but its devotees have many imitators, for the disposition to keep pace with the procession is widespread, and the ability to live beyond the income is easily acquired, and when this becomes a habit the danger line is not far distant.

It is easy to make the luxuries of life seem necessities and the more they are enjoyed the more difficult it is to dispense with them. A wealthy society lady of New York is just now before the public in the role of an economist, who claims that she is able to live comfortably on $70,000 a year, while a social leader in Chicago takes her to task for extravagance, and says that she manages to get along reasonably well on $35,000.

These are the people who set the pace for a lot of shoddy imitators who soon develop a vine appetite which they attempt to gratify on a slender income, and from the ranks of this class come the forgers and counterfeiters in the world of high finance.

Better to live within the income, however, modest it may be, and cultivate habits of thrift and economy against the demand of a rainy day, which is a sure to follow as time is to pass.

HEALTHY TO THE CORE.

"What fundamental business elements are lacking that go to make for a resumption of prosperity and a complete restoration of confidence?"

"What is going out of the country in large quantities at around $1.12 per bushel, corn above 70 cents per bushel and cotton above 5 cents per pound. Foreigners are taking our surplus provisions, oil and other products, in comfortable volume, and our sales in the foreign markets are running into the hundreds of millions a month. Our credits abroad seldom reach larger aggregates than now.

"The election settled several things to the entire satisfaction of the business community and the whole people. It gave a splendid demonstration of the nation's conservatism and sanity by the choice for a chief executive of a sober-minded, broad-gauged statesman of experience and proved good sense, and in so doing placed, by an overwhelming, widely diffused and decisive majority, the seal of popular condemnation on demagogism, socialism and the whole catalogue of dangerous and disturbingisms, thereby showing conclusively that there is no confusion in the minds of the ruling masses between freedom and security on the one hand, and license on the other.

"Money is in ample supply for legitimate needs at rates phenomenally low for this season of the year, and is obtainable by solvent borrowers in amounts and on terms to suit.

"Should stringency threaten, then our credits abroad can be drawn upon or recourse had to the emergency currency provided for by congress to the extent of $500,000,000.

"Men of sense understand, of course, that industries and trade cannot spring from a dead stop into full action in an hour or a day. Time is required for the reassembling of working forces and for getting the machinery into smooth working order."

This is what a leading financial journal has to say of national conditions as they exist today. It is a cheerful and wholesome outlook which should bring joy and satisfaction to the heart of every loyal citizen.

More gratifying than results is the great and important fact that they were brought about by the level-headed common sense of the people who have again demonstrated that they not only think but think right, when questions of national importance are involved.

WATER HIGHWAYS.

The discussion of Rock river as a prospective waterway may seem like a fairy tale, and yet it is in keeping with the general discussion which is going on in all parts of the country, and for which President Roosevelt is in a measure responsible.

The nation has but recently awakened to the fact that its forests have been ruthlessly destroyed, and every effort is now being made to protect the remnant. What is true of the forests is true in another sense of the waterways, for they have been so obstructed and neglected as to be no longer recognized.

It is estimated that more than 50,000 miles of these neglected water courses might be redeemed and turned to account with a moderate outlay of money.

The state of Illinois has just passed a constitutional amendment which authorizes the state to invest $20,000,000 to complete a waterway between Chicago and the Mississippi river. The United States government will add $16,000,000 to the fund for locks and other improvements, and when the work is completed, it will mean not only water communication, but a great water power capable of earning from two to three million dollars a year.

The possibilities of the Rock river valley are equally promising, and the next congress will be asked to appropriate $10,000 for a preliminary survey.

This is a practical enterprise which appeals to manufacturers and businessmen everywhere, as was evidenced at the Twilight club last night, where there was not a dissenting voice. It is of equal value to the farmers, for it furnishes cheap transportation and adds to the value of products.

When steamers ply between Rock Island and the head waters of Rock river it may not be the millennium, but it will be a day for rejoicing. Godspeed the day.

WHAT IS A FRAZZLE.

The President revamped an old word and gave it new significance when he said on the night of election, "We've got them bent to a frazzle." The people of England immediately referred to their dictionaries, and failing to find it, cabled across for information. The Chicago Post immediately came to the rescue, and thus defined what a "frazzle" really is: "When it's shaken till it won't shake any more."

When it's tipped and flapped and flopped against the floor.

When it's ground into a powder and is stirred into a chowder.

When you realize there isn't any core. When it's pulped impalpably, and squeezed.

Till it's drier than the dry Sahara sands.

When it flutters like the tatters that are breezed.

On the scarecrow in the pleasant prairie lands.

When it's twisted.

Twirled.

And twiddled.

When it's griled, and Gougled.

And grilled.

When it's roasted, and is toasted.

"Till it's crumbled to a crisp; When it's sizzled and is fizzled.

To the shadow of a wisp;

And to the shadow of a wisp;

And to the shadow of a wisp;

And to the shadow of a wisp;

And to the shadow of a wisp;

CREAM

Baking Powder

A grape cream of tartar powder. Makes pure, healthful, delicious food. No alum, no lime phosphate.

There is an infallible test by which every housewife may detect the unhealthy alum baking powders—

The label will tell

Study the label. If it does not say cream of tartar the baking powder is made from alum and must be avoided.

When it's jumped upon and bumped

And thumped upon and battered.

When it's tumbled up and jumbled up

And rumbled up and scattered.

When it's smashed and crushed and hushed.

When it's lashed and gashed and dashed.

Perforated, decimated,

Desecrated, salvaged,

Torn and worn and flapped to shreds.

Scorched into a heap of cinders.

Shredded to a filmy shade

Of a shadow doubly faded.

Then receives the razzle-dazzle—

"That's a frazzle."

$10.00 Crowns

When a dentist charges you $10.00 for crowning your teeth, it is charging more than I consider the work is worth.

I crown teeth in this office as good as teeth can be crowned anywhere and charge but $5.00, and I figure too, that I charge sufficient to justify the best work that can be given.

I will not slight the work at any time to make cheap prices.

Come in and let me examine your teeth.

I'll tell you what the cost will be, and you decide whether or not you care to have the work done later.

CHANGES IN NEW RULES

Three Committees Are Abolished and Two New Ones Are Formed—
Second Day's Session.

By the new set of rules for the government of the county board adopted by the board yesterday afternoon three of the old committees are done away with and two new ones have been added. The committee on charters and corporations is abolished and committee No. 3 is now the committee on applications of blind. Committee No. 5 is now the committee on county superintendents, reports, educational matters and county schools instead of on the change of names of towns and villages which has been done away with. Committee No. 6 is now the committee on highways, prospective and permanent instead of on vacating towns and villages. The whole number of committees is sixteen under the new rules, one less than formerly.

Appointments of Committees.
The standing committees remain the same as to membership under the new rules as the committee having the same work under the old rules with a few changes. Committee No. 3 on applications of the blind is composed of C. M. Smith, Cannon and Sherman, committee No. 6 on highways is the same as the former special committee on that subject, S. S. Jones, Paul and Woodruff. These changes were announced by Chairman Gottle this morning immediately after the reading of yesterday's minutes.

The rules for the care of the poor adopted yesterday divide the county into three superintendents' districts. The first is composed of the county asylum and poor farm, the second is approximately the northern part of the county and the third the rest of the county.

Other Business.
Following the report of the committee on rules at yesterday's session the report of County Treasurer Smith was adopted on motion of Supervisor McEvoy.

Supervisor Livermore then made a motion to appoint a committee of two to look into the matter of a deputy sheriff for the municipal court in Beloit. By mistake three were appointed on the committee and this morning the motion was amended to read "three." Supervisors Livermore, Clarke and Henry comprise the committee.

The board then proceeded to the election of a vice-chairman and on the third ballot Supervisor Woodruff was chosen.

On motion of Supervisor Treadway a committee consisting of Supervisors Treadway, Richardson and District Attorney John L. Fisher were appointed to make a contract with the incoming sheriff. Under the resolution adopted by the last board the sheriff's fees have been lowered and this year's contract will be different from former contracts.

Convened at 10:30.
The board then adjourned until 10:30 this morning when the meeting was called to order by Vice-Chairman Woodruff. Chairman Gottle arrived and took the chair and the roll was called showing only Supervisor J. L. Fisher, who is ill at his home, to be absent. The minutes of yesterday were read, a two minor corrections made. Chairman Gottle then read the lists of the standing committees under the new rules.

Following the announcement of the standing committees Mr. Wallin spoke to the board in regard to bill No. 186 with regard to expense which he had sustained in looking after an inmate of the poor farm. The bill amounting to $13 was allowed on motion of Supervisor Hopkins. The bill for the funeral expenses of the Morse child was referred to committee No. 10. Supervisor Miller then addressed the board with regard to the children of Mrs. Dohs to be sent to Sparta. On motion of Supervisor Sherman the board then adjourned until 2:30 this afternoon.

Guests at Asylum
The entire board and several others were the guests of Superintendent Killam and the board of trustees at the county poor farm this noon. Following the dinner the board were shown the institution and inspected it. This is the second year that the board has been thus entertained.

Mr. Starr's Report.
At this afternoon's session F. P. Starr, supervisor of assessments, presented his report. The total value of all real estate in the county was estimated at $55,645,382 and of all personal property at $11,914,062. Mr. Starr gave as the reason for the fact that taxes remained high when property was fairly equalized, that larger expenses were being made in the cities and villages and also because the number of inmates from Rock county in various state institutions was increasing yearly.

WILLIAM IS SCORED

Emperor Severely Censured
in the Reichstag.

ATTACKED FROM ALL SIDES

Leaders of Various Parties Use Astonishingly Free Speech and Receive with Silence the Spiritless Defense of Chancellor Von Buelow.

Berlin, Nov. 11.—All parties in the Reichstag Tuesday united in a fierce attack on Emperor William, censuring him most severely in connection with the interview in the London Telegraph of October 28, published with his consent.

The criticism of his majesty's court, his ministers and his majesty's treatment of the constitution, as well as of his freedom of speech, went to lengths that astonished observers acquainted with the traditional caution of the emperor in dealing with the personality of the sovereign. And the emperor seemed to have no defenders.

Silence Greets the Chancellor. Chancellor von Buelow made an address lasting 15 minutes, but he lacked his usual spirit, and a person high in his confidence is authority for the statement that he also had told the emperor that neither himself nor his successors could remain in office unless his majesty was more reserved. Prince von Buelow spoke solemnly, and without making use of any dramatic effects. The house received his explanation in icy silence instead of giving it that cordial applause which as a general thing follows the chancellor's parliamentary declarations.

The conservatives, representing largely the landed nobility, were almost as relentless as the socialists, the radicals and the national-liberals, and the proceedings are regarded by the extreme liberals as the beginning of a long contest between the crown and parliament that may end in Germany having a ministry responsible to parliament and not to the crown alone.

Brilliant Throng Present. When Herr Bassermann, the national-liberal leader, a friend of Chancellor von Buelow and a specialist in foreign affairs, began discussion of the incident there was hardly a vacant seat on the members' benches, while the galleries were brilliant with the uniforms of officers and the costumes of women. In the royal box were Prince Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, Duke Ernst Gotha, a brother of the emperor; Gen. Jacoby, the imperial adjutant, and Gen. von Moltke, chief of the general staff, while on the raised platforms, facing the chamber sat the members of the house, including the resident envoys of all the German federated states. Some thirty foreign newspaper correspondents were in the press tribune.

Herr Bassermann was followed by Herr Wolmer, radical, and he in turn gave way to Herr Singer, socialist, who declared that if any other servant of the state had done such a thing as had Emperor William, he would be brought before an imperial court for trial.

WANT PHONE SALE ANNULLED. Deal Between Dubuque and Bell Companies Attacked in Court.

Dubuque, Ia., Nov. 11.—Otto C. Snyder of Kansas City, Mo., a stockholder in the Dubuque Telephone Company (Incorporated), filed suit in the United States court here Tuesday in behalf of minority interests asking that the purchase of stock of the Dubuque Telephone Company by the Bell Telephone Company, the Iowa Bell Telephone Company, and their local representatives be set aside on the ground that it is in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. The complaint alleges that on April 3 last, the Bell telephone interests bought control of the Dubuque company, ousted the old board of directors and have since operated the company so as to injure it and with the purpose of establishing a monopoly in restraint of trade.

Flint Glass Workers Ousted. ## E. W. CARMACK'S DEATH IS MOURNED BY MANY

Editor and Former Senator, Slain in Nashville, Is Buried at Columbia.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 11.—Sad scenes marked the removal Tuesday to Columbia of the body of Edward W. Carmack, editor and former senator, whom Robin Cooper shot Monday in a street duel. Mr. Carmack's death is widely mourned in Tennessee.

Members of the W. C. T. U., whose cause Mr. Carmack had ably championed, gathered at the station in Nashville, and as the casket was borne in joined in singing "Lord, Kindly Light," and "Stand for Jesus." A brief address was delivered by Rev. Ira Landrith. Mrs. Carmack and a few of her closest friends were on the special car which conveyed the body, and the profusion of flowers was but another of the many testimonials of grief from hosts of friends and sympathizers. All during the morning hours a stream of callers had entered the home of Frank Landrith, where the body lay.

The funeral party reached Columbia about four o'clock in the afternoon, and were met by a large concourse of friends. The body was at once taken to the Carmack home, where the funeral services were held Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock.

The police are investigating numerous stories which gained circulation among Carmack's friends and were cited by them as tending to show that the Cooper had previously determined to attack the former senator and were searching for him when the tragedy occurred.

LAMPHERE JURY NOT OBTAINED. Third Venue Is Ordered to Complete the Number.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 11.—The Lamphere case in the Lafayette circuit court came to an abrupt halt at three o'clock Tuesday afternoon, when the second special venire had been exhausted without a jury having been obtained. With the examination of George H. Teeters, who was peremptorily excused by the defense, the examination of 62 men, 12 from the regular panel and 50 on two special venires, was concluded, and so Judge Richter at once ordered a third venire. With the adjournment of court ten jurors, accepted by both the state and the defendant's attorneys, were in the jury box, with pretty fair indications that all of them will remain on the jury as finally accepted.

MIGHTY VESSEL IS LAUNCHED. North Dakota Christened by Miss Mary Benton of Fargo.

Quincy, Mass., Nov. 11.—The most powerful addition which the navy of the United States has ever received, and America's first all-around big-gun battleship, the North Dakota, was successfully launched Tuesday from the yard of the Fore River Shipbuilding Company. With the form of the christening who straggled down her bow-plates from the bottle smashed by Miss Mary Benton of Fargo, N. D., and under the watchful eye of Gov. John Burke of the state for which she is named, the North Dakota floated off in to the basin about 80 per cent completed. Some time next summer she will be turned over to the government for acceptance and if she fulfills the test, will go into commission next September.

ROOSEVELT NOT AFTER TQGA. W. L. Ward Says President Isn't Candidate for Senate.

Washington, Nov. 11.—President Roosevelt, six months ago, came to the decision that no combination of circumstances would induce him to become a candidate for election to the United States senate to succeed Thomas C. Platt, said National Committeeman William L. Ward of New York Tuesday as he was leaving the White House. Asked if he thought Secretary Root would be the next senator from New York, Mr. Ward replied by asking: "Would Mr. Root be a candidate?"

Kaiser Decorates Zeppelin. Friedrichshafen, Nov. 11.—Emperor William, after witnessing a splendid series of maneuvers by the Zeppelin airship Tuesday, personally conferred upon the count the order of the Black Eagle, the highest Prussian decoration. Some expectation had been entertained that the emperor himself would be one of the airship's passengers in the maneuvers, but instead, Prince von Furstenberg, who has been the emperor's traveling companion lately, took his place in the car.

Black Hand Outrage in Detroit. Detroit, Mich., Nov. 11.—Following the receipt Tuesday of a Black Hand letter demanding $500, the home of Grilleo Moreau at 273 Larned street east, was blown up Tuesday night. Although the house was badly wrecked none of the nine persons asleep in it was injured.

Kills Brother by Accident. Menominee, Mich., Nov. 11.—Duncan McKay, 17, was accidentally shot and killed Tuesday by his brother Fred. The two were hunting deer when the latter stumbled and fell. His gun discharged and the lead struck Duncan.

Shawneetown Still County Seat. Shawneetown, Ill., Nov. 11.—The contest between Shawneetown and Ridgeway for the removal of the county seat from Shawneetown to the latter place resulted in a victory for Shawneetown by a majority of 129 votes.

"I promise not to," she said gayly, "unless you do."

"There remains," he observed, "but one way for you and I ever to marry anybody. And, as you have concurred, even that hope is ended."

She flushed; her lips parted, but she checked what she had meant to say, and they walked forward together in silence for awhile until she had made up her mind what to say and how to express it.

"Captain Selwyn, there are two things that you do which seem to me unfair. You still have at times that faraway, absent expression which excludes me, and when I venture to break the silence you have a way of answering, 'Yes, child,' and 'No, child,' as though you were inattentive and I had not yet become an adult. That is my first complaint. What are you laughing at? It is true, and it confuses and hurts me, because I know I am intelligent enough and old enough to be treated as a woman—a woman attractive enough to be reckoned with! But I never seem to be wholly so to you."

The laugh died out as she ended. For a moment they stood there confronting one another.

"Do you imagine," he said in a low voice, "that I do not know all that?"

"I don't know whether you do. For all your friendship—for all your liking and your kindness to me—somehow—I don't seem to stand with you as other women do. I don't seem to stand 'there' either."

"What chances?"

"The consideration. You don't call any other woman 'child,' do you? You don't constantly remind other women of the difference in your ages, do you? You don't feel with other women that you are, as you please to call it, 'concours'—out of the running. And somehow with me it humiliates, because, even if I am the sort of girl who never means to marry, you—your attitude seems to take away the possibility of my changing my mind. It dictates to me, giving me no choice, no liberty, no personal freedom in the matter. It's as though you considered me somehow utterly out of the question—radically unthinkable as a woman. And you assume to take for granted that I also regard you as—as 'concours.' Those are my grievances, Captain Selwyn. And I don't regard you so. And I—and it troubles me to be excluded—to be found wanting, inadequate in anything that a woman should be. I know that you and I have no desire to marry each other, but—let please don't make the reason for it either your age or my physical immaturity or intellectual inexperience."

One of those weather stained seats of Georgia marble stood imbedded under the trees near where she had halted, and she seated herself, outwardly composed and inwardly a little frightened at what she had said.

As for Selwyn, he remained where he had been standing on the lawn's velvet edge, and, raising her eyes again, her heart misgave her that she had wanted to strain a friendship which had been all but perfect, and now he was moving across the path toward her, a curious look in his face which she could not interpret. She looked up as he approached and stretched out her hand.

"Forgive me, Captain Selwyn," she said. "I am a child—a spoiled one—and I have proved it to you. Will you sit here beside me and tell me very gently what a fool I am to risk straining the friendship dearest to me in the whole world? And will you fix my penance?"

"You have fixed it yourself," he said. "How?"

"By the challenge of your womanhood."

"I did not challenge."

"No; you defended. You are right. The girl I cared for—the girl who was there with me on Brier Water—so many, many centuries ago—the girl who, years ago, leaned there beside me on the sundial—has become a memory."

"What do you mean?" she asked faintly.

"Shall I tell you?"

"Yes."

"You will not be unhappy if I tell you?"

"No."

"Have you any idea what I am going to say, Ellen?"

She looked up quickly, frightened at the tremor in his voice.

"Don't—don't say it, Captain Selwyn!"

"Will you listen as a penance?"

"I—no, I cannot."

He said quietly: "I was afraid you could not listen. You see, Ellen, that, after all, a man does know when he is done for."

"Captain Selwyn!" She turned and caught his hands in both of hers, her eyes bright with tears. "Is that the penalty for what I said? Did you think I invited this?"

"Invited? No, child," he said gently. "I was fool enough to believe in myself; that is all. I have always been on the edge of leaving you. Only in dreams did I ever dare set foot across that frontier. Now I have dared. I love you. That is all, and it must not distress you."

"But it does not," she said. "I have always loved you—dearly, dearly. Not in that way. I don't know how. Must it be in that way, Captain Selwyn? Can we not go on in the other way—that dear way which I—I have—almost—

Chapter 19

BRAD came to Silver-side two or three times during the early summer, arriving usually on Friday and always remaining until the following Monday morning.

All his youthful admiration and friendship for Selwyn had returned. That was plainly evident, and with it something less of callow self-sufficiency. He did not appear to be as conscious of himself and the world as he had been. There was less haughtiness about him, less aggressive complacency. Somewhere and somehow somebody or something had come into collision with him, but who or what this had been he did not offer to confide in Selwyn, and the older man, dreading to disturb the existing accord between them, forbore to question him or invite, even indirectly, any confidence not offered. Selwyn and Ellen also noticed that he became very restless toward the end of his visits at Silver-side, as though something in the city awaited him—some duty or responsibility not entirely pleasant.

There was, too, something of soberness, amounting at moments to discontented listlessness, not solitary brooding, for at such moments he stuck to Selwyn, following him about and remaining rather close to him, as though the older man's mere presence was a comfort, even a protection.

So their relations remained during the early summer, and everybody supposed that Gerald's two weeks' vacation would be spent there at Silver-side. Apparently the boy himself thought so, too, for he made some plans ahead, and Austin sent down a very handsome new motor boat for him.

Then at the last minute a telegram arrived saying that he had sailed for Newport on Neergard's big yacht, and for two weeks no word was received from him at Silver-side.

One day in September Selwyn wrote Gerald, asking him to bring Edgerton Lavin and come down to Silver-side for the purpose of witnessing some experiments with the new smokeless explosive, chasote.

Young Lavin came by the first train. Gerald wired that he would arrive the following morning.

He did arrive, unusually pallid, almost haggard, and Selwyn, who met him at the station and drove him over from Wyomett, ventured at last to give the boy a chance.

But Gerald remained utterly unresponsive, stolidly so, and the other instantly relinquished the hope of any confidence at that time, shifting the conversation at once to the object and reason of Gerald's coming and gayly expressing his belief that the time was very near at hand when chasote would figure heavily in the world's list of commercially valuable explosives.

DR. D. D. THOMPSON IS DEAD OF HIS INJURIES

Struck by Automobile, the Editor of the Christian Advocate Expires in St. Louis.

St. Louis, Nov. 11.—Dr. David D. Thompson, editor of the Northwest Christian Advocate, published in Chicago, died Tuesday as the result of an injury sustained by being struck by an automobile.

After the accident Dr. Thompson was taken to St. Luke's hospital, where it was found that he had sustained a multiple fracture of the right arm and a nervous shock.

Although Dr. Thompson was unconscious when he reached the hospital, and his condition was believed serious, it was not expected that his injury would end fatally.

Dr. Thompson came to St. Louis from Evanston, Ill., last Tuesday, to attend the meeting of the general committee for foreign missions of the Methodist Episcopal church. The meeting was held in the Lindell Avenue Methodist church, and Dr. Thompson Monday evening had left his hotel at Lindell boulevard and Doyle avenue to walk to the church.

The night was rainy and Dr. Thompson was carrying a raised umbrella. As he stepped from the curb on the north side of Lindell boulevard the machine struck him. He was knocked down, but not run over.

A statement issued by the Rev. Fayette L. Thompson stated that he and the Rev. C. H. Spencer of Kansas City and the Rev. Dr. A. G. Nast of Cincinnati had investigated the accident and had exonerated the driver of the machine from blame.

HITCHCOCK AT HOT SPRINGS. Republican Chairman and Judge Taft Discuss the Campaign.

Hot Springs, Va., Nov. 11.—President-elect Taft and his national chairman, Frank H. Hitchcock, had a long and pleasant chat Tuesday over the many phases of the campaign. It was the first opportunity for such an extended and cordial exchange of views, and at its conclusion both expressed their pleasure in the interview.

Mr. Taft was told about the campaign fund, which Mr. Hitchcock is to make public in detail in a few days. The national chairman said that this fund was smaller in its aggregate than any similar fund since the record of such funds had been kept and that it was collected from every state in the union and represented a wider distribution of support than ever before.

FIREBUG CAUSES BIG ROW.

Son of Accused Kentuckian Slaves Officer's Companion.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 11.—As a result of an incendiary fire destroying the drug store and office of Dr. W. B. McClure at Sherburne, Bath county, Monday night, one man is under arrest, another is probably fatally stabbed, and the whole community is so wrought up over the affair that rioting is expected.

Early Tuesday Capt. V. G. Mullikin received a telephone message from Sherburne to come there with his bloodhounds. He went and the dogs at once took up the trail at the site of the burned buildings and followed it to the home of Harry Morgan. Mullikin arrested Morgan.

Mullikin was accompanied by T. G. Daugherty, whose barn was destroyed by night riders last spring. As Mullikin turned to leave the house with Daugherty and Morgan, under arrest, young Harry Morgan stabbed Daugherty twice. For a time a general fight seemed imminent, but the cooler men in the party prevented this. Harry Morgan is held at Sherburne.

Morse Must Stay in Jail. New York, Nov. 11.—Bull was denied Charles W. Morse, the financier, who has been sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment at hard labor, at the closing of the United States circuit court of appeals Tuesday, and it now seems certain that the former multi-millionaire must remain in the Tombs prison at least until December 3 next, when argument on the writ of error that has been granted him may come up.

Court Upholds Gov. Haskell. Guthrie, Okla., Nov. 11.—Unanimously concurring in the result of Justice Turner's adverse opinion, the state supreme court Tuesday denied Attorney General West's application for rehearing in the matter of Gov. Haskell's prohibition of West's suit in the Logan county district court to annul the charter of the Prairie Oil & Gas Company.

Veteran of Three Wars Dies. Worcester, Mass., Nov. 11.—Gen. Samuel Chamberlain, a veteran of the Mexican, Indian and civil wars, died at St. Vincent's hospital, this city, Tuesday, from infirmities incident to old age. He was born in 1827.

Cotton Conference Is Opened. Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 11.—Seven southern states were represented at the opening session Tuesday of the conference of growers, merchants and others whose interests are allied with the growth and marketing of cotton, called by President Harlow Jordan of the Southern Cotton association, to discuss the present downward tendency of the spot price of the staple and the recent spread of the operations of so-called "light riders" and agree to measures as will act as a remedy to present conditions.

So the boys in Des Moines, 50 in number, were made volunteer policemen and distributed throughout their respective neighborhoods all over the city. They were to ascertain names of all boys in their neighborhood doing mischief and report. The plan was announced through the papers. It worked admirably. Only a few reports were made and these of very trivial offenses. It was the most orderly Halloween Des Moines has ever had. Boy policemen proved a success.
